40. Atlanta 1996. Painting by Michel Delacroix: Atlanta 1896 – 1996. In 1994, for the Centennial Olympic Games in Atlanta, Georgia, the IOC and the United States Olympic Committee named famous painter Michel Delacroix as the Official Artist for the 1996 Olympic Games and commissioned him to celebrate the 1996 Games in an oil painting titled ATLANTA 1896 – 1996. Delacroix’s stunning work was used to create an Official Poster for the 1996 Games and to mark the 100th anniversary of the modern Olympic Games. This master piece reflects a combination of a century past and the present. In the center of the painting, we see the Olympic banner. The painting is a significant historical piece commemorating the event. It was displayed in several venues throughout the games. Delacroix is famous the world over for his masterful preservation of the naif style and he has had over 370 shows of his works worldwide. He was born in Paris in 1933 and continues to live in Paris today. The painting features a modern Atlanta in the twilight of the day in the upper portion of the painting, including some Olympic venues in the center, then gracefully depicting the Atlanta of yesteryear depicting locomotives and horse drawn carriages of days gone by in the lower portions of work. The details of life, the spires of churches, businesses and architecture of both centuries are masterfully blended. Many scenes within the scene draw you in.

The Centennial Olympic Games – Described by the Consignor. This large work is oil on board. The painting itself measures 56x74.5cm (22”x29”). The original frame measures 74.5x92.5cm (29”x36.5”). The painting has been well cared for and is in excellent condition. The provenance is from the Atlanta Olympic Committee to William Tritt (Suburban Galleries) in Atlanta and then to the current owner in 1997 with documentation. This is one treasure to be passed from generation to generation and to always be enjoyed. EF. ($24,000)
